

Disclaimer: This website is a compilation / collection of resources mainly from our research on the internet, social media and connecting with universities and academics who studied with a focus on human trafficking in South Africa. The National Freedom Network (NFN) cannot be seen or portrayed as the ones who "own" the resources. We have subsequently received requests to share resources, obtained permission and aim purely to share resources to help many people who desire to learn about the reality of human trafficking in South Africa. Please bear this in mind when raising awareness and using video clips etc. Please acknowledge individuals or organisations who published / uploaded resources. All authors, journalists, media organisations, individuals, journals or organisations whether they are partners of the NFN or not are acknowledged and listed on the website with the resources.

NationalFreedomNetwork